Spring Edition Newsletter—2007

Jan Neil's Exhibition & Book Launch 'Surface Intrigue'

Surface Intrigue

An exhibition of Jan Neil's contemporary prints, canvases and originals in modern colours and a range of sizes and prices to suit all your requirements.

Jan will also be launching her new exquisite limited edition leather bound book which includes 24 images, and will be available for signing on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

An exclusive preview not to be missed and a rare opportunity to meet Jan Neil in person.

Special offers will be available to you our valued clientele. A great opportunity to save and add a special piece of artwork to your décor.

About the Artist

Jan Neil was born in Hobart where she studied graphic art and on completion then moved to Victoria and studied fine art in Bendigo.

In the late 80's and 90's Jan travelled extensively overseas, where she gained the inspiration to develop a new spontaneous way of presenting her artwork from which evolved her own distinctive style.

By 2003, Jan established her own purpose fitted gallery and studio at Clifton Hill, Victoria.

Jan has had extensive exhibitions in Australia as well as Hong Kong and her works are in many private, public and corporate collections in Australia and overseas.

What's New

New Hours

As mentioned in the previous newsletter, just a reminder that we will be closing Sundays from October onwards. September 30th will be our last operating Sunday.

Picture Rail Hanging System

We now have on display a hanging system that can be installed in any area of your home.

A modern and flexible approach to hanging your artwork, the Arti Teq click rail system is designed and made in Holland.

It is an alternative and affordable system which enables you to move your artwork without leaving unsightly holes in the wall.

For more information see their website www.artiteq.com

Review

A Night of New Releases

by
Darryl Trott

What a wonderful evening!

We had a fantastic turnout of Darryl Trott admirers who enjoyed a feast of beautiful images, including the 3 new releases.

Some members of Darryl's family came along and were sharing stories about their brother which was a true privilege. A big thank you for their support.

Overall, it was a lovely night enjoyed by all and an honour to continue a legacy of a man with an incredible talent.

We still have one room completely dedicated to Darryl's work, with an ongoing special offer until October. So if you missed out, come in now for a browse.

Expert Tips

Canvas Art Options

With the current trend being the contemporary canvas look and availability sometimes being limited in this area, we have considered some different options for your convenience.

Option 1

A canvas print which is simply stretched. Although the range is limited the good news is, more catalogues are making their prints available in this format.

Option 2

An original canvas painted by one of our local artists which is also simply stretched. A painting can be purchased from our floor stock or a piece can be commissioned to your specified needs. This option is also quite affordable in comparison to canvas prints of similar sizes.

Option 3

A paper print which is lacquered with a gel medium and leaves a textured finish and no need for glass. A frame is required but you can opt for a small frame profile. An excellent advantage of this option is you have a huge range of prints to choose from.

Coming Up!

Ceramics Exhibition

The Sixth Dimension

Friday 30th November

House of Prints will be presenting a beautiful collection of ceramic artwork created by a group of 6 talented South Australian ceramicists.

Their 4th annual exhibition brings a creative dimension with works ranging from urns, plates and vases to wall features and sculptural pieces.

A perfect time of the year to consider gifts for Christmas or to add a special piece to your home or office for the festive season.
